

Things to Know About Equine Donations

R.O.C.K. accepts donations of equines into our program after passing an evaluation and trial period at the R.O.C.K. facilities.

Equines who come to R.O.C.K. may partner in our Therapeutic, Hippotherapy or Education Program.

R.O.C.K. requires an evaluation by at least 2 staff members, either at the R.O.C.K. facility or at the equine's current location. Upon the evaluators' recommendation, R.O.C.K. will accept the equine for a 90 day trial period, depending on what the Equine Team feels is warranted as long as the below conditions are met.

If at all possible, the owner will transport the equine to our facility. If, after the designated time period, the equine is not considered appropriate for R.O.C.K.'s program, the owner will pick the equine up. Acceptance of the equine for a trial period does not obligate R.O.C.K. to accept the equine into its program.

R.O.C.K. requests:

- that the owner demonstrates or has someone else demonstrate how the equine moves under saddle at all appropriate gaits at the initial evaluation.
- that the equine be recently trimmed/shod and have a negative coggins test within the last 12 months before the equine(s) is allowed at the R.O.C.K. facilities.
- the equine to be able to load and travel properly in a horse trailer.
- a copy of the equine's previous year's veterinary records (including vaccinations, teeth floating, and any other visits from the vet) as well as be current on all vaccinations.
- the owner to pay for any major medical costs related to their equine during the trial period.
- that the equine pass the initial evaluation, as well as subsequent test of suitability.

According to the R.O.C.K. guidelines, we cannot accept equines:

- with EIA or equines that are blind in one eye
- with ERU, EPM, Laminitis, and/or neurological conditions.

R.O.C.K. may refuse an equine donation for any reason at any time.

Equine Donation Policy & Procedures

Policy

Thank you for considering a donation of your equine to the Ride On Center for Kids. It is the policy of R.O.C.K., Ride On Center for Kids to accept donations of equines from their owners for the purpose of our Therapeutic, Hippotherapy and Education Program. Equines accepted into R.O.C.K.'s program must be mentally and physically healthy and sound, and they must be able to maintain a moderate work schedule. R.O.C.K. is not a sanctuary for retired equines, nor a rescue organization, but rather a special place where a special category of equine comes to fill a special need. Please review our requirements as stated below, and let us know if you have any more questions.

Requirements

R.O.C.K. requires an evaluation by at least 2 staff members, either at the R.O.C.K. facility or at the equine's current location. Upon the evaluators' recommendation, R.O.C.K. will accept the equine for a 90 day trial period, depending on what the Equine Team feels is warranted as long as the below conditions are met.

If at all possible, the owner will transport the equine to our facility. If, after the designated time period, the equine is not considered appropriate for R.O.C.K.'s program, the owner will pick up the equine. Acceptance of the equine for a trial period does not obligate R.O.C.K. to accept the equine into its program.

R.O.C.K. requires:

- that all equines to be donated to their program have a current negative Coggins test within the last 12 months before the equine(s) is allowed at the R.O.C.K. facilities.
- all donated equines to be current on all vaccinations.
- that the owner demonstrates or has someone else demonstrate how the equine moves under saddle at all appropriate gaits.
- that the equine be recently trimmed/shod.
- the equine to be able to load and travel properly in a horse trailer.
- the owner pay for any major medical costs related to their equine during the trial period.

According to the guidelines of R.O.C.K.'s Board of Directors and R.O.C.K.'s veterinarian, R.O.C.K. cannot accept equines:

- that has EIA or is completely blind .
- with ERU, EPM, laminitis, or neurological conditions

When the equine passes the evaluation and trial period and is ready to be donated to R.O.C.K., the donor must sign a donation contract giving up all rights to the donated equine and transferring ownership of the equine to R.O.C.K.

Once the equine's service is completed, the donor will be the first party contacted. If the equine cannot be returned to their care a suitable home will be found for the equine.

R.O.C.K. does not have colic surgery performed on equines in our possession. We will make every effort to contact the owner/donor if you would elect to pay for colic surgery. The horse would then become your responsibility for rehabilitation.

R.O.C.K. can refuse donation of any equine for any reason at any time.

After reading and understanding the above guidelines and policies, I would like R.O.C.K. to evaluate my equine. If my equine passes the initial evaluation, I will make arrangements for my equine to be transported to R.O.C.K. for a trial period for possible donation to R.O.C.K.
